

Transcript of Joyce Allan clip

Oh yeah, I can remember it was funny, it was a funny place to work yes. People were lovely, really lovely, and it was nice because I worked down on the shop floor as well, especially when I was doing analysis of business processes and so on; so I got to engage with a lot of people. And also when I was helping out with the, getting people trained on how to use their desktop computer, you get to talk to lots and lots of different people. They were just salt of the earth type. And of course, how could I forget that? One of the most important things. Marconi also had a sailing club, the Marconi Sailing Club on the Blackwater. And that was such a big part of my life, how could I have forgotten that!